July 2011

Compiled by TAKADA Nobuhiro

- May 20
20-year-old Japan born and raised German national, Berns Johannes, has been working as “a Ricksha driver” in Otaru since the beginning of spring. His missionary parents came to Japan 30 years ago. Mr. Johannes was born in Okazaki, Aichi Prefecture and went to the German school in Kanagawa Prefecture before finding part time work in Tokyo. Last January he decided to move to Hokkaido to be closer to nature and was employed by “Ebisuya,” a Ricksha company for tourists.
- May 26
Students of Hakodate Specialized Vocational High School have discovered an ancient coin from Vietnam, which is called “Kaita Igenpo,” among 997 old coins found during roadwork in Shiriuchi close to Hakodate. It is the first time that a Vietnamese ancient coin was unearthed in Japan. The students are the members of a society studying buried cultural property by making use of the high school’s substance analysis equipment.
- May 28
Limited express “Super Ozora No. 14” bound for Sapporo derailed and stalled in The First Niuu Tunnel on JR Hokkaido Seikisho Line around 9:55 pm. Soon afterward the train caught fire and 39 passengers were taken to a hospital, although none of them were seriously injured. A thrust shaft which dropped out is considered to be the cause of the derailment.
- June 4
Hokkaido Air Commuter propeller aircraft carrying 13 passengers and crew members from Hakodate Airport nosedived to an altitude of 30 meters after aborting the first landing attempt at Okushiri Island Airport due to low visibility. The cause of the near miss was the captain’s incorrect setting of the ground proximity warning system. In addition, the aircraft was used for seven flights in spite of its engines needing an inspection after a pilot reporting that they revved up excessively when pulled up.
- June 14
“Softbank Corporation,” one of the major telecom companies in Japan, plans to build a mega photovoltaic power plant in Hokkaido. With the maximum power output of 500 megawatts it would be the largest in the world, encompassing an area of 1,000 hectares. Obihiro and the Eastern Tomakomai Industrial Area which receive high amount of sunlight are the potential locations of the plant. The plant is one of ten planned to be built across Japan.

EVENTS IN ASAHIKAWA FOR JULY

Hello Asahikawa!

Name: Una Volkova
Hometown: Vainode, Latvia
Interviewed: 22nd June, 2011
By AIC

AIC: What do you do here in Higashikawa?

Una: I am the Coordinator for International Relations (CIR,) as part of the Japan Exchange & Teaching (JET) Program for the town of Higashikawa. I'm in my first year in this position and I'm the first and only JET CIR from Latvia and my duties are quite varied. I teach English to the Town Hall employees, and schoolchildren. I translate official documents and E-mails in Latvian, Japanese, and English, as well as interpret official phone conversations, meetings, etc.

I am assigned by the Board of Education (B.o.E.) to teach English to 30 first and second year students once a week over a five month course. This course is called the Apple Kids Club (APC). I also do school visits to the local elementary schools. There are four elementary schools in Higashikawa, Daiichi (Number 1,) Daini (Number 2,) Daisan (Number 3,) and Tohshou (Higashikawa Elementary School). However, I only visited the first three schools to introduce myself and I conducted no more than about two English lessons in each, but I conduct weekly lessons in Tohshou as an Assistant English Teacher (ALT). When I first started teaching I was really nervous because I've never thought before and English isn't my first language. Over time the kids have gotten used to me and started to open up more. I've also gained more confidence and experience and I really enjoy it now. Higashikawa will receive two new ALTs next month and I'm looking forward to meeting them and sharing my teaching experience with them.

Very soon and official Latvian delegation will be visiting Higashikawa and I've been very busy translating documents and letters, as well as other work connected to this visit. The Latvian town of Rujiena is the Sister-City to Higashikawa and the Latvian visiting delegation, including the Mayor of Rujiena, is from this town. The Latvian community in Japan is very small, and as a matter of fact the Latvian Embassy in Tokyo has only two staff. Therefore, there's only three of us preparing the whole program for the visit. Incidentally, the Latvian Ambassador's hometown is Rujiena and it was on his initiative that Higashikawa and Rujiena concluded Sister-City ties. I believe that the bilateral relationship between the two countries will greatly develop in the future.

We have a Latvian Association here in Higashikawa with Mr. Inoshita in charge of it as well as acting as the Latvian Consular General for Higashikawa. There is a Latvia Kan (Latvia House) in town where visitors and can get information on Latvia. A few years ago there was also a Latvian café there but unfortunately it closed down. Another activity that I do outside working hours to promote understanding of Latvian culture in Higashikawa is a regular Latvian dance class. I try to introduce traditional Latvian culture through folk dancing.

AIC: Please tell us a little bit about your hometown?

Una: My home country is Latvia which is in the Baltic region of Northern Europe. It is bordered

Una: by Estonia, Lithuania, Russia, and Belarus. It is one of the least populated nations in the European Union with a population of around 2.2 million. In the 20th Century Latvia was part of the Soviet Union until it gained its independence in 1991. Latvian people first settled on the coast of the Baltic Sea around 3,000 BC and established trading routes to Rome and Byzantium. The Baltic Sea region is famous for amber, and so Latvian traders traded it for precious metals. Unlike Hokkaido, Latvia is a very flat country consisting of low-lying fertile plains, rivers, and forests. The highest peak, Gaizinkalns, is only 312 meters. I was amazed to see such high mountains here in Hokkaido. The Latvian capital and largest city is Riga. With around 700,000 inhabitants it's the biggest city in the Baltic region. It's a very beautiful city whose historical center has been declared a UNESCO World heritage Site.

My hometown is Vainode in the Kurzume region, or Courland in English, and is a very small town not far from the sea. Historically Kurzume is famous for its ferocious sailors, so much so that in a church in Denmark there is a plaque that read "Beware of the Kurzi (Courlanders) and the Black Plague." But today it's a very beautiful and peaceful little seaside town. After graduating from high school I moved to Riga and entered university. The lifestyle in Riga is very different to that in Vainode. So it was an eye-opening experience.

AIC: What do you like to do in your spare time?

Una: In this time in Latvia it doesn't get dark until around 11pm, so there's a lot of time for outdoor experience. But my main passion is music. I studied violin for 11 years and have been singing since I could remember. I also play the guitar and practice as much as I can. I like different styles of music depending on my mood. I want to be a professional musician in the future.

What I like about Higashikawa is the beautiful natural scenery around the town. When I'm alone I cycle down the riverside, and I also get together with friends here and go to karaoke or house parties. One of my favourite places in Higashikawa is the cake shop "Tengetsu." The cakes are excellent there and I always stay for a chat with the lady who runs it. However, I try to avoid the shop as much as possible as it's affecting my waistline (laugh). I'm also a vocalist in two bands, one in Mombetsu and the other in Sapporo, and so I travel every weekend for practice.

AIC: And what are your goals for the future?

Una: As I said I would like to be a musician or work in the music industry, for example. Also, I would like to introduce Japanese culture to Latvian people. I feel very privileged to have this experience as a CIR. So I would definitely like to use it in the future. I would like to organize public and private events which would showcase traditional and modern Japanese culture.

AIC: Well, thank you very much for your time, Una.

Andy: You're welcome.

Hello Wild Flowers

Wandering Among The Wild Flowers Around Asahikawa By Hitoshi KUDOH

In early June, two ants are busily treading through a dense clump of aromatic herbs under semi-shaded deciduous woods. Ant A tells Ant B, "Look. These are hitorishizukas or you might say 'Placid alone'. Placid alone is one of our precious foodstuff, you know."

"Gulping Gargoyles! Why is it Placid 'ALONE'? There are so many of these plants, crowded, forming the clump here – a thicket." exclaimed Ant B.

"It isn't like that, pal. Look carefully at the terminal white flower spike. Every single plant has only one spike its own. Never two nor more. Though we also have two spiked one that is called Futarishizuka, or Placid duplicate (Chloranthus serratus). Its flower isn't thread-like but shell-like." They gaze at a stalk of a Placid alone to check. Ant B inquires, "Can we collect it now?" Ant A cries out prudently, "Almost!" Ant B asks again, "What do you mean by 'Almost'?" Ant A replies, "The spike will soon bend down towards the ground, my pal. And it indicates that the fruits of this spike are ready."

HITORISHIZUKA(一人静) Chloranthus japonicus Siebold

family:Chloranthaceae

common name: Placid alone (Solitary Princess Shizuka-gozen or Placid)

*Princess Shizuka is mistress of General Yoshitsune: one of Genji clan

Description: Herbaceous perennial of dicotyledons. In spring, reddish shoot appears from its rhizome or seeds. Stem is erect, thin but sturdy, not branched, basal nodes have a pair of membranous opposite scale-like leaves. The 4 real leaves are ovate, bluntly serrated and glossy dark green, with conspicuous veins. The 4 leaves make up a crisscrossed pseudowhorl.

Inflorescence, a single spike. A white aromatic flower is bisexual, without petal and sepal, consists of a green pistil and 3 white filaments attached to the bottom of the pistil. Outer 2 filaments have an anther at its base but central one doesn't. Pollinated by many insects, each pistil turns into a green fruit. The fruit attaches the elaiosome at the end. The substance is rich and attracts ants. They drag it to the nest to take in the elaiosome and discard the fruit to germinate. 15~40cm high.

Edible. Medicinal.

Habitat: Semi-moist woodlands.

Distribution: Japan, Russia, Korea, China

Hello Japan

“Kyaraben”

By SEO Ayumi

Kyaraben or charaben (キャラ弁) is a shortened form of character bento (キャラクター弁当, kyarakutā bentō). It is an elaborately arranged bento (lunch box) which features food decorated to look like people, characters from popular media, animals, and plants. Originally, a decorated bento were made to make children interested in their food and to encourage eating preferences. It has now evolved to the point where national contests are held. In the Sanrio Kyaraben Contest, the participants are called ‘Kyarabenist’ and are generally housewives.

Since decades ago mothers have prepared octopus-shaped sausages and the like, and arranged them in children's lunch boxes. However, the lunch boxes were not really wholly decorated. Kyaraben boom began around 2005 when some housewives started a blog about neatly designed bento boxes as a way of dealing with the ‘early rising, plain, tiresome, and ungrateful’ bento preparation. Since then Kyaraben had received a great deal of attention from housewives. So much so that their blog had the second largest number of users on Yahoo! Today it is further evolving every year to the point that it is considered an art form. As it’s primarily a children lunch box the opportunity for mothers to prepare Kyaraben will decrease as the children grow up. However, the skill and techniques will be inherited by the next generation of mothers.

As snow has finally melts in Asahikawa picnic season has finally arrived. It could be worthwhile waking up to make Kyaraben which will be sure to amaze your family and friends. You might even be a bit intoxicated with your new bento talent making. And as a word of caution, make sure the characters are completely IN the box or you will not be able to close the lid. This is a common hazard of preparing Kyaraben.
