May 18

Three new hotels equipped for long-term stays for foreign tourists are opening in Susukino (Sapporo's downtown district) in June. Targeting families and large groups, rooms are equipped with kitchens, furniture, and home appliances. Demand is high for these types of hotels, and people can expect to see more of them in the future.

May 23

Hokkaido University is opening an office in Moscow in June, hoping to attract more students. The opening of the new office was made possible by the Ministry of Education, Culture, Sports, Science and Technology to increase Japan's global competitiveness in education.

May 24

According to the Hokkaido government, 10,032 technical intern trainees from overseas are working in Hokkaido. This number has increased for its seventh consecutive year, up 18% since the previous year. Most trainees are working in the food manufacturing business, however, more and more construction and fishing businesses are now accepting them.

June 3

The Sapporo district meteorological observatory announced that the average temperature in May was 3.1°C higher than usual, the highest ever since records began in 1946. Saroma Town recorded a temperature of 39.5°C on May 26th, the hottest May temperature ever recorded in Japan.

June 8

Small-scale handmade cheese factories are on the rise in Kamikawa subprefecture. In Asahikawa alone there are seven of such factories, and if you include surrounding towns, the number goes up to 13. A farming style called "fermier" (cheese is produced on the farm where the milk is produced) is still the main style employed. An increase in the overall number of cheese factories, including industrial style factories, is believed to be the main reason for this rise.

Present-day British Automata: Paul Spooner and his Contemporaries ブリティッシュ・オートマタ ポール・スプナーと英国現代からくり人形の世界

These mechanical contraptions were highly popular in Europe from the mid-18th century to the 19th century among the upper class. The complex movement demonstrated in these automata is powered by cranks, gears, and coil springs. In this exhibition you will see 80 different automata, will have the chance to see them in action, and if you like, will be able to try out some of the replicas the museum has available.

EVENTS IN ASAHIKAWA FOR JULY

Explore Asahikawa!

In our July edition of Explore Asahikawa, we interviewed Yuki, the owner of Smooch Coffee. What inspired Yuki to open a California inspired coffee business in the cold Hokkaido north? What kind of shops does Smooch Coffee own and how are they different from other coffee shops in Hokkaido? Read more about Smooch Coffee and Yuki's thoughts in the interview below!

AIC: Why did you decide to start up a coffee shop?

Yuki: All the coffee we sell in this shop is imported from Santa Cruz, California, where I lived for a while. I saw so many cool coffee shops while I was there so I was inspired to open up my own.

AIC: So you've lived in the U.S. before?

Yuki: Yes, I have. I've lived in Santa Cruz, Monterey, Los Angeles, and even Seattle. My favorite was Northern California. The weather is so nice and sunny all the time. You can't live there anymore, though. It's too expensive.

AIC: How did "Smooch" get its name?

Yuki: It was actually my business partner who thought of the name. We wanted a name with a double "O." Groove, Smooch, something like that. To us, "Smooch" is like a greeting. Coffee in itself is a greeting from us to the customer, so that's how we got our name.

AIC: What kind of atmosphere do you hope to create at Smooch?

Yuki: A peaceful and positive atmosphere, but it depends on the location of the shop. I was inspired by the coffee shops in Santa Cruz so I try to create a similar atmosphere.

AIC: What are some differences between your coffee shops in Asahikawa and Sapporo and the ones you went to in Santa Cruz?

Yuki: We have four months of snow here so it's not exactly the same environment as Santa Cruz. The weather has been getting warmer recently, so right now it's pretty similar. The goal is to take Santa Cruz's relaxed atmosphere and put a Hokkaido twist on it. It has been about six years since we opened our first store in Sapporo. Even though we import the beans from Santa Cruz, our cafes definitely have a Hokkaido feel.

Come in to and take advantage of specials only offered during the summer!

AIC: Do you have a specific preference for how you like your coffee?
Yuki: As long as it tastes good. That's what it's all about, right? There are so many different types of coffee, and the same goes for people. Every person is unique, and every type of coffee is unique. As long as that coffee tastes good, I'm satisfied. All the coffee we import from Santa Cruz gets here two to three days after it has been roasted, so you know it tastes good. The company that we import our coffee from has two shops in Santa Cruz and a roasting factory in Watsonville, right in between Monterey and Santa Cruz next to the coast.

AIC: What's your favorite type of cookie that you sell here?
Yuki: I love them all. We use a delicious recipe from a cookie shop in Stanford, California, and make the cookies with local ingredients. They all taste great.

AIC: Do you have any goals for Smooch in the future?
Yuki: Hmm... This is a tough one. Well, I want to work hard to make the Smooch Coffee shops more comfortable and fun for our customers.

Chocolate chip, peanut butter, oatmeal, walnut chocolate, and more. So many flavors to choose from!

AIC: What makes Smooch unique?
Yuki: We have a lot of unique items and decorations in our shop. Every item in Smooch has meaning. I could talk about each one for five minutes. Mass produced, brand new stuff can't do that for you. You'll get tired of them in no time. You will never get bored of things that are unique and have their own personal story. For example, here's a picture of a used horse trailer we imported from the States. To think that this trailer would be given a second life as a coffee trailer in Japan is unimaginable. Here's a picture.

AIC: Wow! It looks incredible.
Yuki: It's really amazing, and it's a hit with the customers, too. We've been using it in Sapporo recently, and one of them even drew a painting of the trailer by the lakeside for us.

AIC: I love it. Lastly, please give a message for our readers.
Yuki: Many Japanese people really want to talk to more foreign people, but they are too shy to start up a conversation. Please try talking to more Japanese people! As far as our shop goes, I have some good advice for activities and places see in Hokkaido, so if you're interested come give us a visit!

This remodeled horse trailer is the perfect portable coffee stand!

We would like to thank Yuki of Smooch Coffee for granting us the opportunity for an interview. To learn more, go to www.smoochcoffee.com, or visit the Asahikawa location at: Akebono 1-jo 2-chome

Life in Asahikawa

July, Mid-Summer By KITAMURA Tadao

When midsummer comes around, people are reminded of just how hot summer can be, and some feel apprehensive about the weather of when the 2020 Tokyo Olympics will take place. Earlier this year, an unusually strong heat-wave surged through Japan. Even here in Hokkaido, where people enjoy a rather mild climate every year, days of blistering heat higher than 35°C occurred on the last week of May. Surprisingly, Saroma Town, a neighboring town of Abashiri City in Eastern Hokkaido, recorded a high of 39.5°C. It was the highest recorded temperature in the town's history. In addition, the JR- railroad temporarily stopped service on express trains due to a concern that the rails would be distorted by the heat.

Japan has had a humid subtropical climate throughout most of history, however, the environment is changing. 'Global warming' is making headway. In recent years, a considerable number of lives (mostly school-children and the aged) were lost to severe heatstroke. This occurred all over the archipelago during the summer season, sometimes on school grounds and other times in facilities for aged people. When a heat wave is approaching, the Japan Meteorological Agency and the media give warnings through television broadcast or through the internet. They advise not to stay outdoors for an extended period of time, to drink plenty of water, not to stay in a car for a long time, to remember to put your air conditioner on, and other pieces of advice.

Days of scorching summer heat, known as moshobi, are defined as a days having recorded temperatures of higher than 35°C, and they occur more often than one would think in the many districts of the archipelago. When a hot mass of air comes from the Sea of Japan and leaps over the mountain ridges of the archipelago down to an out-skirt plain, it emits tremendous heat energy. This phenomenon is called "Foehn wind." The 2020 Tokyo Olympics will be held between July 24th and August 7th. People are excited for this incredible event, and desperately hope that a heat wave will not occur. However, do not worry too much. Our city of Asahikawa is located on the west side of the Daisetsu Mountains. The wind from west passes over our city to the mountains, so the Foehn wind does not occur on our side.

Although the weather is especially hot in the day-hours, the nighttime is chilly and wonderful. After sunset, people will often go for a stroll outdoors wearing light garments like yukata, admiring the Milky Way and constellations of the Swan, the Eagle, the Harp, and so on. On the seventh of July is a festival that originates from a myth telling the love story between two stars, Vega and Altair, separated by the Milky Way.

Hello Asahikawa!

Name: Steven Campbell
Home Country: United States
Interviewed: June 10th, 2019

If you live in Asahikawa or are just passing through and would like to be interviewed for "Hello Asahikawa," email us at cir_kokusai@city.asahikawa.hokkaido.jp

AIC: So Steven, where are you from?

Steven: I'm from Bloomington, Illinois, which is in the central part of the state of Illinois. It's about 120 miles or so away from Chicago.

AIC: What brings you to Japan?

Steven: I'm a member of the Bloomington-Normal-Asahikawa Sister City Committee, and every year we send students we call "Junior Ambassadors" to Japan to take in the culture and learn about the country. It also acts as a look-see to students who may want to come and spend a year as a foreign exchange student. We don't want them to come and then two or three weeks later have them say "It's not what I thought it would be."

AIC: How did you get involved with the Bloomington-Normal Sister City Committee?

Steven: Well, I retired from Caterpillar Inc. in 2014, and I wanted to give something back to my community. I happen to know the mayor of Bloomington which helped in terms of me getting in contact. He pointed out to me that we have a number of different committees that needed members like the Bloomington-Normal-Asahikawa Sister City Committee and I thought, "I'd like to be on that." That's how I got started.

AIC: So then, is this your first time in Asahikawa?

Steven: It's actually my third time in Asahikawa. In 2016 I was a chaperone for three boys and a girl for the Junior Ambassadors program. In 2017 I was here for the 55th anniversary of the sister cities relationship between Bloomington-Normal and Asahikawa. It's actually one of the longest sister city relationships in all of the United States.

AIC: Are there any big differences between Asahikawa compared to where you live?

Steven: You don't have as many potholes (laughs). I also like how you have a lot of little gardens all over the city. Buses and trains here run on time. It's a beautiful city. Bloomington-Normal is a beautiful city as well, but here you have mountains all the way out and around Asahikawa, so no matter where you look there are mountains. In Bloomington-Normal, when you get outside of the city it's flat. Just corn and beans (laughs). That's one thing that impresses the Junior Ambassadors. There are many places in the city you can go to and in the background you see mountains. It's a real treat for them.

AIC: What do you like about Asahikawa, or Japan in general?

Steven: Uhh, lavender ice cream (laughs). I really do like it. The ramen is also good, and the Junior Ambassadors would say so as well. Overall, being completely immersed in another culture is such an incredible learning experience.

AIC: What are your hobbies?
Steven: I like golfing. As a matter of fact I went golfing Sunday. I can't remember the country club's name, but it was by the Asahikawa Airport and it was one of the most beautiful courses I've ever been on. I had a great day.

AIC: How long do you plan on being in Asahikawa?
Steven: We left Bloomington-Normal on May 31st, and we'll be leaving June 16th. The entire trip is 17 days including travel time. It's a solid two weeks for actually being here.

AIC: Do you like Karaoke?
Steven: Yes I like karaoke, but I promise everyone that I won't sing because I have a very very terrible voice. It's been known to shake buildings it's so bad (laughs).

AIC: Well, I hope I never hear it! (laughs)
Steven: I'd like to try karaoke, but I'd have to be like a mime. That's the only way I could do it.

AIC: Thank you so much for participating in this interview!
Steven: Thank you! I want to thank the sister cities committee and the city of Asahikawa for giving the Junior Ambassadors the opportunity to come here and learn about Japanese culture!
