Hokkaido News Top 5

May 2011

Compiled by TAKADA Nobuhiro

- March 27
The City of Asahikawa has sent relief supplies to the City of Morioka in Iwate Prefecture and the City of Iwaki in Fukushima Prefecture. Both cities have been affected by the March 11th Eastern Japan Earthquake. The ten tons of relief supplies which include daily commodities and food items, had been donated by citizens, companies and associations in Asahikawa. They hope to help people affected in the both cities, which are like Asahikawa “core cities in Japan.”
- April 7
A hunter witnessed a white Ezo-shika deer in a meadow in Tsurui Village on March 30th and April 5th. The 60-year-old hunter said that it was the first time for him to see a white deer in his 40-year career as a hunter. A white deer is considered to be a messenger of the gods, so hunters are not allowed to shoot these deer. The village of Tsurui is also famous for Japanese red-crown cranes.
- April 7
The number of visitors to Asahiyama Zoo from November 1st to April 7th was 453,812. It is a considerable decline of about 140,000 visitors from the same period of the previous year. The March 11th Eastern Japan Earthquake was a factor in the decline of visitor numbers to the zoo.
- April 13
Skymark Airlines has announced that they are going to open four new routes from Narita to Asahikawa, New Chitose, Fukuoka, and Naha. The new domestic airline routes will open from the coming October to February. The airline company plans to sell 20 plane tickets for the price of ¥980 per flight for the first three months following the opening of each of the new routes.
- April 17
The City of Asahikawa has started giving out a “Footpath Guide Map of Asahikawa.” There are six footpaths on the map. The first course is in downtown, the second is around a wildflower garden in Arashiyama, the third is in the countryside, the fourth is visiting ruins, the fifth is along the Chubetsu River, and the last is to a pasture. The footpath guide map is given out at the tourist information center at JR Asahikawa Station and the Tourism Division of the city hall.

EVENTS IN ASAHIKAWA FOR MAY

Hello Asahikawa!

Name: Balde Cellou

Hometown: Mamou, Republic of Guinea

Interviewed: 16th March, 2011

By TAKADA Nobuhiro (AIC)

AIC: What do you do here in Asahikawa?

Balde: At the moment I'm working for a firm called "Greentex." We're involved in producing and selling products used in organic agriculture. We also grow an organic brand of garlic called "Hikoichi Ninniku." It was believed that garlic could not be grown organically but we've proved that wrong with this high quality product grown here in Asahikawa.

AIC: Do you export "Hikoichi Ninniku" garlic?

Balde: Well, right now our farm is not so big, so we're only supplying the domestic market. However, in the coming years we're looking at expanding into the international market, primarily China and other Asian countries.

AIC: So you have your own farm in Asahikawa?

Balde: Yes, we have a farm in Daiba (south-west Asahikawa) where we grow organic vegetables as well as "Hikoichi Ninniku" garlic.

AIC: How large is your farm?

Balde: It's only around three hectares. We also produce and sell organic fertilizer and an organic compost called "Gomi Up." You sprinkle a bit of "Gomi Up" on your domestic raw garbage and in six to ten days it turns into organic fertilizer. It's great for the environment as it reduces waste and the use of chemical fertilizers. For those with pets, you can also use "Gomi Up" to convert your pet's litter into fertilizer while also eliminating the bad smell. Another product we produce is "Do Up" organic fertilizer which can be used to help grow any kind of plants and great tasting vegetables. Of course it also helps save energy that goes into garbage storage and disposal.

AIC: Why did you decide to start working in Greentex?

Balde: I was very interested in their products because they're so practical and good for the environment. I see great potential for these kinds of products in the future not just in Japan but internationally too. One of my goals is to introduce Greentex products to Africa, as I believe that they're ideal for small scale agriculture. I see it as very important for future organic farming in Africa. Actually, our motto is "garbage can save the earth." Before I joined Greentex I ran a clothing store in downtown Asahikawa. I ran the store for six years and it was a great experience. However, in the last couple of years business had really dropped due to the tough economic situation that gripped this region.

AIC: What kind of clothing store was it?

Balde: We stocked street and urban style clothes, such as brand name Hip-Hop gear from the US. The business was really good in the first couple of years, as that style of clothing is very popular in Japan, especially with the younger generation.

AIC: When did you first arrive at Asahikawa?

Balde: I first arrived around eight years ago. I came to Asahikawa with the intention of starting my clothing business.

AIC: Why did you choose to start your business in Asahikawa?

Balde: At that time there weren't many clothing stores of this kind in Hokkaido, especially in northern Hokkaido. In places like Tokyo and Osaka there are plenty of street style clothing stores, so opening one there was not a good idea. I figured that Hokkaido would be the ideal place to open up a store. When I first came to Japan I lived in the Kansai region close to Osaka and that's where I became interested in the Hip-Hop clothing business.

AIC: Tell us a little about your home-country?

Balde: I'm from the Republic of Guinea. Guinea is located in western Africa and borders Guinea-Bissau, Senegal, and Mali in the north and Ivory Coast, Sierra Leone, and Liberia in the south. The population of Guinea is around 10 million and is made up of 24 different ethnic groups, with the most prominent being Fula, Mandinka, and Susu. Islam is the main religion with over 90% of the population being Muslim. It's quite a large country, about 250,000 square kilometers in total divided into four regions with the City of Conakry as the national capital. Guinea used to be colonized by the French from 1890's as part of what was then French West Africa. We gained our independence on October 2nd, 1958. However, French is the official language because we have a number of indigenous languages which are all very different, so people from different regions can't understand each other. So, other than English I speak French, my local language, and I read and write Arabic. We have the second biggest reserves of bauxite in the world, after Australia. We also have diamonds, gold, silver, uranium and many precious gems such as sapphires, rubies, etc. In fact it is believed that there are a number of resources in Guinea that haven't even been discovered or exploited yet. So the Republic of Guinea is a very resource rich nation but so much of it is yet to be discovered. A few years ago a group of Russian scientists conducted research and found offshore deposits of oil.

AIC: Tell us a little about your hometown?

Balde: I'm from Mamou region in the north of the country. It's predominantly an agricultural region. You can find vast hectares of tomatoes, potatoes, and other vegetables. In my hometown we grow the hottest kind of chili in Guinea. Guinea is also an exporter of tropical fruits such as bananas, pineapples and various kinds of mangoes, as well as small quantities of rice.

AIC: Your hometown sounds a little bit like Asahikawa.

Balde: Kind of, however, it's much smaller than Asahikawa. Actually, I really like living in Asahikawa, even though the economic situation worsened in the last few years I did my best to stay and live here. To me Asahikawa is a perfect city, not too small and not too big and very comfortable for family life. Also, I enjoy working in Greentex because they have a long term vision for their business and are actively looking to expand internationally. We're already involved in organic farming in China and in the next few months we will start a project in the Philippines. Japanese agricultural technology is very sophisticated and Greentex is working at introducing these methods to developing countries. Thanks to this I feel very positive about my future in this city.

AIC: Well, thank you very much for your time Cellou.

Balde: Thank you.

Republic of Guinea

Life In Asahikawa

THE START OF THE FLOWER SEASON

By KITAMURA Tadao

Henry David Thoreau (1817~62), was a 19th Century American sage, poet and naturalist, who led his hermit life by a pond called Walden in the woods of Concord, Massachusetts. He pursued the simple life in harmony with nature in a humble cabin which he built by himself. In his masterwork "Walden" he described in detail the changing seasons, plant and animal life, insects, birds, and anything else that caught his eye in the pristine nature that surrounded him.

Walden pond is located on almost the same latitude as Asahikawa. Therefore it's interesting to compare the two natural environments.

He put it like this: Early in May, the oaks, hickories, maples and other trees, started leafing out amidst the pine forest around the pond. They brought brightness, akin to sunshine, to the landscape. Especially on cloudy days, it seemed as if the sun was breaking through the mists and shining faintly on the hillside.

Here in Asahikawa also, May blesses the trees in forests with vernal energy. The trees on hillsides begin to add their brightness more and more by each day. Tree species are somewhat different in Concord and Asahikawa; in Concord there are red-oaks and in Asahikawa Mizunara. Maples of Concord are sugar-maples and Itaya in Asahikawa. However, here and Concord the twigs of these deciduous trees filled with flesh sap, radiate a colorful splendor of spring.

You might see the first colors of early spring probably on Arashiyama, a hill in western Asahikawa. It would be the flowers of Kita-Kobushi, or Magnolia kobus var. borealis. A fragrant creamy-white flower blooming on top of these tall trees. People are very pleased to see them, as it is a sure sign that the long awaited spring is here at last.

A week to ten days later, cherry blossoms (Ezo-yama-zakura), or Prunus sargentii Rheder, will start to bloom. An affluent pinkish white covers the whole mountainside. People come together to enjoy flower-viewing (O-hanami). It is the curtain raiser for this land's big flower-show.

During some days in early May, you can see pretty little nymphs flying only above the sunny hillside of Arashiyama. They are butterflies, Hime-gifuchou (Luehdorfia puziloi yessoensis) a rather small species with a wing span of 25-32mm that resembles a swallowtail. As a caterpillar it feeds solely on a plant called Okuezo-saishin (Asiarum heterotropoides) which is very rare to find in other woods. They enjoy their very short life flying with colonies of other Spring-fairies, such as Katakuri (Erythronium japonica) and Ezo-engosaku (Corydalis ambigua).

MACHI BAR By AIC

If you've walked down Kaimono Koen Shopping Street lately you've bound to have noticed the Mediterranean style eatery Machi Bar. From the outside its open front makes it quite enticing to the curious passerby.

So when our division organized a party to see off one of our members and welcome her successor, we chose Machi Bar.

We ordered a ¥5,000 per/head course which consisted of seven different savory dishes, including salad, and two desserts. The course also included a 90-minute all you can drink menu that offered various cocktails, mixed drinks, and beer (including the hard to find Kirin Braumeister).

Machi Bar is a perfect spot to drop in anytime of the day or night if you fancy a Parisian atmosphere with good food and drink, and a great view of Kaimono Koen Shopping Street.

Address: Asahikawa City 2-jo 8-chome
(Kaimono Koen Shopping Street)
Operating Hours: 11:00am ~ 11:00pm (12:00am on a night before a Public Holiday)

Avocado, Bread, and Mozzarella Cheese Gratin

Tomato and String Pea Paella

Ham and Potato Frittata, Pickled Vegetables, and Pate on Toast.

Hello Wild Flowers

Wandering among the Wild Flowers around Asahikawa By Hitoshi KUDOH

AKITAVUKI (秋田蓴) Petasites japonicus v. giganteus
family Compositae
Common name: Japanese Butterbur

Flower-heads appear in late winter. They are called "Fuki-no-Tou." Male and female flower-heads are borne on separate plants.

Male flower-heads are yellowish, and have mostly tubular florets with few rays. They fade away in early spring.

Female flower-heads are white, and have many thread-like styles. They grow to 1.5 meter or more till they bear fruit clusters. The fruit is a typical clock.
