Hokkaido News Top 5

February 2018
Compiled by AIC

December 22

A walking path from Tenninkyo Onsen to Hagoromo Waterfalls will be open to the public in May 2018 for the first time in 5 years. The path was closed due to the 2013 landslide. Hagoromo Waterfalls reach up to 270 meters in height, one of the biggest in Hokkaido and chosen as one of the 100 best waterfalls in Japan.

December 31

The Maruyama Zoo in Sapporo City announced a plan to implement the use of AI for animal health and housing management. The zoo is teaming up with Hokkaido University and local IT companies to explore the possibilities of the early detection of diseases by using AI to analyze animal locomotion and sounds.

January 6

Takasu-based adventurer Yasunaga OGITA reached the South Pole on a solo trek unassisted, becoming the first Japanese to achieve a feat of this kind. There are only 20 such people in the world. The journey lasted 50 days and 1,126 km. OGITA said "I just kept walking step by step and didn't give up or make compromises."

January 13

Research conducted by Hokkaido University has concluded that warm waters off the coast of north Shiretoko make it difficult for salmon fry (newly hatched salmon) to move to the Sea of Okhotsk offshore. This lowers the fry's survival rate, explaining the drop in numbers of recent salmon catches.

January 15

The Furano Grape Research Institute announced that "Furano No.2" (ふらの2号), a special grape variety used for icewines, was harvested on the morning of January 14 and will be ready for sale in December 2018. The grapes were harvested under Canadian icewine standards; grapes have to be naturally frozen on the vine and pressed in a continuous process while the air temperature is -8°C or lower for at least 24 hours.

Hello Asahikawa!

Name: Stephen Hayes

Home Country: New Zealand

Interviewed: January 16th, 2018

If you live in Asahikawa or are just passing through and would like to be interviewed for "Hello Asahikawa," email us at cir\_kokusai@city.asahikawa.hokkaido.jp!

AIC: So Stephen, what brings you to Japan? Is it your first time?

Stephen: My wife is from Japan. We were living in New Zealand but thought we should try to live in Japan for a while. We have young children so we thought we should try it while they are young. I came on the JET Programme in August 2016, and have been teaching English at a high school in Asahikawa. I had visited Japan for two weeks about 5 years ago, but this was my first time to Hokkaido.

AIC: Is this your first time out of your home country? Where else have you been?

Stephen: I had done a bit of travel in South East Asia and America.

AIC: Sounds fun! Do you speak Japanese or any other languages?

Stephen: I am trying to learn Japanese, but it is difficult to find time. My family speaks to me in English, and to each other in Japanese, so I often feel like a foreigner in my own home! I don't speak any other languages.

AIC: How long do you plan on being here in Asahikawa?

Stephen: We were planning to stay until at least August 2019, but we are going home in a few months at short notice because of my father's health. But we love it in Asahikawa, it is a great place to live, we would happily live here forever if circumstances allowed.

AIC: Sorry to hear that you're heading back already. Where are you from originally?

Stephen: I am from New Zealand. The lifestyle in Asahikawa for us has been surprisingly similar, lots of nature and outdoor activities. The winter is completely different, but apart from occasional nerves driving on the road, I think the winter here is fantastic. I will miss it a lot.

AIC: What are your hobbies? Are you into winter sports?

Stephen: I have enjoyed learning ice skating and cross country skiing. There are many other winter things I would like to do if I had the time, but cross country skiing is my favourite. It is not possible to do this where I am from, so it is very interesting for me.

AIC: Lastly, how do you feel about karaoke?

Stephen: I don't do it often, but when I do, I either love it or hate it, never in between.

AIC: Thank you for letting me interview you!

Stephen: You're welcome.

Explore Asahikawa!

In this edition, we interviewed Mr. Nobuta, one of the owners of Izakaya Tenkin. The Tenkin name spans multiple restaurants and has a rich history in Asahikawa. What makes Izakaya Tenkin an Asahikawa favorite? Read more about Izakaya Tenkin and Mr. Nobuta's thoughts below!

AIC: Did you set your sights on working as a chef from the time you were young?

Mr. Nobuta: Yes, I did from when I was very young. I loved cooking. I was aware that my father was managing this restaurant from the time I was little. That's when I knew I wanted to be the successor of the family business.

AIC: How was the name "Tenkin" decided upon? Note: Tenkin is written using the kanji for heaven/sky "天" (ten) and the kanji for money/metal "金" (kin).

Mr. Nobuta: From long ago in Japan it was often said that "The customer is god," and that remains true for us today. "The customer is god," in other words, you must value your customers. We strive to make our customers happy and it is shown in our service and mentality. If we don't get customers, we won't be able to do business, right? That business becomes money, and that is our livelihood. God lives in the heavens, and "天金" (Tenkin) represents money falling to us from those heavens.

AIC: Could you tell me a little about the history of Tenkin and how it started?

Mr. Nobuta: Well, my grandfather and my grandmother founded Tenkin. The two of them ran the restaurant until my grandfather joined the war and went to Manchuria. He came back, they continued the restaurant, and from there onwards it got bigger and bigger. They had a shop that specialized in meat like shabu-shabu and sukiyaki, and another one that specialized in more traditional Japanese cooking. The first Tenkin was actually right here in this building, and when they made a new Tenkin restaurant on 3-jo-dori they decided to make that one the flagship shop and turn this one into an izakaya. We've been running those two shops for several decades now.

AIC: What does Tenkin specialize in?

Mr. Nobuta: As an izakaya, our focus is on "fast, affordable, and delicious". We get our dishes out fast, provide it to our customers at an affordable price, and serve food with superior taste. Those are our standards. We carefully select in-season ingredients from all over of the prefecture and this is how we are able to serve delicious meals to our customers.

AIC: What are some of the seasonal specialties around this time of the year?

Mr. Nobuta: In January right now, Pacific cod is in season. Soft cod roe in ponzu sauce is incredible this time of the year. You can eat it with ponzu sauce, you can make tempura out of it, and you can eat it with a beaten egg poured on top. It is even good in hot pot. In February, sailfin poacher is in season. Crab season peaks in March. Hokkaido has 3 different surrounding seas: The Sea of Japan, the Sea of Okhotsk, and the Pacific Ocean. You can harvest different types of seafood at each sea at any given time of the year. Even if it's the same type of seafood, the time that each one can be harvested differs depending on the sea. For example, with crab, the season is about to start in Wakkanai. If you head down south towards Mombetsu and even Kushiro, that's where we have been getting our crab catches recently. The crab season in the Pacific Ocean is over, and now it is moving on up to the Sea of Okhotsk. We like to tell our customers what foods taste the best in that season and from there they learn for themselves.

AIC: Are you interested in foreign cuisine?

Mr. Nobuta: I am. I haven't had the time to dedicate myself to it, but I am definitely interested. There are so many high-quality ingredients in foreign cuisine like truffles. I've never cooked with them before, but I have eaten them.

AIC: If you could study a single type of foreign cuisine, what would it be?

Mr. Nobuta: It would have to be French cuisine. I would take French cuisine and make it match the Japanese izakaya atmosphere. Instead of eating it in the traditional sophisticated way, you'd eat it like you'd eat anything else we serve here. I think that would be pretty interesting. I want to make it fast, affordable, and delicious.

AIC: Lastly, please give a message to our readers!

Mr. Nobuta: We want to continue providing the most delicious foods from each season to our customers, and we would like for more of the foreign residents here to experience the quality of these fresh, Japanese ingredients. We look forward to seeing you stop by!

We would like to thank Mr. Nobuta, one of the owners of Izakaya Tenkin for granting us the opportunity for an interview. Check out their website at www.tenkin.net for hours and more information. Thank you for reading!
